Avison Young announces plans for construction of Regina office buildings

BY JOE COUTURE, LEADER-POST APRIL 7, 2010 4:02 PM

REGINA — Today, Avison Young Commercial Real Estate announced plans for the construction of two new low-rise office buildings in Regina.

One building, which has been in the works for years, will be built at the corner of Pasqua Street and Dewdney Avenue. That three-storey building will house a variety of health-field-related tenants. Granite Properties is the development company.

A second building, which had not been announced previously, will be built on the old theatre site in the downtown, at the corner of Albert Street and 11th Avenue. The four-storey building was designed with the city downtown master plan in mind and will house a variety of offices. Alberta-based Anderson Builders Group is the development company.

Avison Young will be marketing the space in both of the buildings.
